Wisconsin Osteoporosis Symposium: The Bare Bones of Osteoporosis Care

June 5, 2015
The Fluno Center
Madison, Wisconsin

Learning Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, participants should be able to:

- Define recent advances in osteoporosis prevention and treatment and apply them in practice.
- Recognize controversies surrounding pharmacologic osteoporosis therapy including side effects and the risk/benefit ratio of therapy.
- Determine when and how to perform an evaluation for secondary osteoporosis and how to manage the condition once diagnosed.

Meet the Faculty

This will be an interactive learning session based on a highly popular and successful model used at other osteoporosis meetings. These informal sessions will focus around the main themes of osteoporosis diagnosis and care. Three faculty will lead each of these smaller group sessions and focus discussion. Attendees are encouraged to share challenging patient presentations with the instructors and other attendees. Additionally, attendees can move from one group to another as they wish.

Statement of Need

Nationally, over 2 million people sustain osteoporotic fracture annually - a number projected to dramatically increase as our population ages. However, osteoporosis prevention and treatment strategies are rapidly changing. Controversies surrounding optimal nutrition, use of diagnostic modalities and treatment thresholds, available medications and other therapies will be discussed.

Elements of Competence

This CME activity has been designed to change learner competence and performance and focuses on the American Board of Medical Specialties areas of patient care and procedural skills, and medical knowledge.

Target Audience

This activity has been designed to meet the needs of clinicians and other health care professionals looking to enhance their knowledge and skills related to musculoskeletal health for the care of their patients.
